

45 Entry-level Jobs for English Majors

The positions below offer a wide range of opportunities for you to use creative, analytical, informative, rhetorical, or technical ways of thinking and communicating—whatever you prefer. Research methods also vary widely, from interviews to archives to internet.

Many positions can be found in different kinds of workplaces: large corporations; industry associations; medium and small companies and businesses; community organizations; advocacy organizations; nonprofit groups; educational institutions; and government agencies, departments, units (e.g., state, county), and contractors.

This means that a position will come with its own subject matter about which to think, research, and communicate, so you have the chance to work in an area you find interesting or important. Just a few examples are science, technology, politics, business, sports, law, arts and culture, books, social movement and advocacy issues, music, film and TV, health and medicine, fashion, social media, exercise and diet, food, travel, education, community action, and government and military policy.

Account Manager—Industry, Finance, Healthcare, Technology

Ad Writer

Archivist

Arts Administration—Museums, Arts Centers, Theaters, Dance or Music Companies

Associate Consultant (Management Consulting)

Brand Strategist

Communications for Marketing Analysis

Communications Specialist/Writer—Corporate, Higher Education, Government

Content Manager

Content Writer

Copy Editor

Copywriter

Digital Copywriter—Brands, Social Movements, Companies, Industries

Editorial Assistant/Assistant Editor

Email Marketing Professional

Fundraiser Communications—Education, Election Campaigns, Advocacy Groups, Nonprofits

Government/Contractor Communications

Grant Writer

Human Resources Specialist

Legal Writer

Librarian

Marketing Specialist

Medical Scribe

News Reporter

Nonprofit Staff Writer

Paralegal

Production Assistant

Proofreader

Proposal Writer

Public Relations Specialist

Research Analyst

Researcher—Business, Industry, Think Tanks, Government, Nonprofits

Scriptwriter—Entertainment, Games, Education, Training, and Marketing

SEO Content Writer/Manager

Social Media Manager

Social Media Marketing

Speechwriter

Sports Writer

Staff Writer for News/Entertainment Platforms

Teaching English as a Second Language

Technical Writer

Television Writer

Training Specialist

Travel Writer

Video Game Writer